

HIT HIM AGAIN.

The following tentative, re-buke was recently administered by the Hon. Richard H. Stanton of Kentucky, to Stevens, the notorious abolitionist and vulgar-minded demagogue who misrepresents Pennsylvania in the halls of Congress. Mr. S., as is known to most of our readers, is the brother of our own representative, Hon. H. P. Stanton; like him in years past labored with his hands—like him glories in that fact, and of being descended from an up right and worthy mechanic,—and like him evidently possesses talents of a high order.

"I cannot, sir, in justice to myself, and the people whom I have the honor to represent take my seat without bestowing some notice upon a portion of the extraordinary speech of the honorable gentleman from Pennsylvania, (Mr. Stevens,) and I regret that he is not now in his seat to hear what I intend to say. His name is not unknown to the people of the West. His boldness and intrepidity on a certain memorable occasion have given him a world wide notoriety. It needed not his late tirade against the most worthy and meritorious class of our citizens, the free white laborers of the slave States, to give him reputation. The 'Back to war'—an occurrence which has never taken place in a slave State—has made his name memorable all over this nation. The honorable gentleman in depicting what he supposes to be one of the evils of slavery, thought proper to make an unjust and unwarrantable attack upon the free white laborers of the slave State. That I may not misrepresent the gentleman, I quote the slanderous attack from his printed speech.

"There, there is no sound connecting-link between the aristocratic and the slave. True, there is a class of human beings between them, but they are the most worthless and miserable of mankind. The poor white laborer is the scorn of the slave himself; for slavery always degrades labor.—The white people who work with their hands, are ranked with other laborers—the slaves. They are excluded from the society of the rich. Their associates, if any are with the colored population. They feel that they are degraded and despised, and their minds and conduct generally conform to that condition."

Sir, if any man on this floor has a right to speak for the free white laborers of the slave States, it is I. It is the pride of my life, that I sprang from this class of citizens thus wantonly denounced. Twelve years of my life were spent in actual manual labor among them, and I have never lived elsewhere than in a slave State. So far as the language of the honorable gentleman applies to that portion of the free white laborers whom I represent, I pronounce the charges base, unmitigated slanders utterly without foundation in truth. I do not hesitate to say, sir, that a more moral, intelligent high minded and patriotic class of men than the free laborers of Kentucky, cannot be found in any State of our Union. So far from being held in scorn by any portion of the population, they are respected by all, and many find their way to the pulpit, the bar, the legislature, and the halls of Congress. I venture the assertion, that in all the qualities which contribute to the dignity and perfection of human nature, they surpass infinitely the same class of men in any of the free States, and occupy a higher position in the scale of social life. I do not know that the honorable gentleman who thus assails the free citizens of slave States with vituperation and slander, ever trod his foot upon the soil of one of these States; but this I do know, that with his present sentiments, and his disposition to vilify and slander persons of whom he knows nothing, if he came among us, there is not a respectable negro who would deem him a fit associate. The presence of slavery does not necessarily degrade any portion of the white population; and the honorable gentleman, when he becomes more familiar with the moral and social condition of the people of the slave States, will find the very reverse to be the true condition, of things. But while the honorable gentleman is expending his sympathies on the poor slaves, and poor white laborers of the slave States, let me direct his attention to the condition of the population in some of the free States. He will find here a wider and more legitimate field for the exercise of his benevolent sympathies, and one which will repay his philanthropy, if sincere, with a richer harvest of fruits.

SINGLE PACKETS.
We have on our mail boxes scores of what are technically called, in the office, "single packets," that is, where only one paper goes to a post office. These packets have the name of the subscriber, with that of the post office, written upon the wrapper, and not on the paper. The wrappers are directed first to save time, and the papers put into them afterwards. Whenever, therefore, a subscriber gets a paper with his name written not on the paper but on the wrapper, his is a single packet. What we want to be at is this:—We would like to have all our single packets doubled, trebled, quadrupled, or more if it might be. It is troublesome to send out these single packets—too troublesome in proportion to the gain. We can fix up two or three papers for the mail nearly as soon as we can one. Besides, we always realize a feeling of anxiety in regard to these little packets, in sending one paper away so far. We feel for them in that lonely and uncertain journey. As to the larger packets, the very bulk will command some respect from the post office clerks. But these solitary little fellows, in their seeming insignificance, may probably be kicked into some corner, or miss their way, and be lost among the hills and hollows. A small package does not arrive so certainly at its destination as a large one. We have a remedy to propose for this state of things. Let each subscriber, who gets a single packet, obtain another subscriber or two, whose papers may go along with this for company. It is a pity to have one paper take such long journeys, as some do, solitary and alone. Give them more company, and they will travel more swiftly and reach their destination more surely.

"Positive, Comparative and Superlative."—One editor, speaking of the commencement of a newspaper in that city, says: "Let every democrat subscribe for it, [this is good advice,] read it, [this is better,] and pay for it." [This is best.]

He who wishes to pay twenty per cent more for his goods than they are worth, should go to those who do not advertise.—Rely upon it, reader.

Indulgence travels very leisurely, and Poverty will soon overtake her. What a time they'll have when they get together.

If a young woman is worth having for a wife some man that is worth having for a husband will find her out.

"Mr. Brown, I owe you a grudge, remember that!"

"I shall not be frightened, then, for I never knew you to pay anything that you owed."

THE ARTESIAN

SPRINGS.

THESE Springs situated in Madison County, 22 miles North-east of Canton, will be open for the reception of visitors on the 15th May next. Gen. T. C. McMackin, well known to the traveling and reading public as the best landlord of the South, will have the superintendence and management under his entire control. This is a sufficient guarantee for the comfort of the visitors.—We have erected and in the course of erection buildings sufficiently spacious to accommodate 500 persons in all comfort, and also a number of double cottages which will be rented to families by the month or season. There will also be a large Ball Room and band of music, Tenpin Alley and Billiard Tables, for amusement and exercise, and a Bar room well furnished with the choicest "creature comforts."

We have made arrangements with Mr. Ledbetter, the enterprising contractor of the Yazoo City, Lexington and Benton Stage line, who will promptly convey all passengers from those points to the Springs.

Passengers by way of Canton, will be immediately conveyed to the Springs by Mr. Jesse P. Brown, in Coach and Hack with speed and perfect safety.

These Springs are situated on the Ridge which lies between Big Black and Pearl, in a high rolling country and on the immediate border of the pine region, and the proprietors feel fully justified from their own observation, from the estimation of that portion of the public to whom the beneficial effects of their waters are known, and from the concurrent testimony of many intelligent gentlemen of the medical profession under whose recommendation and observation they have been used, in recommending them, in all cases in which tonics are indicated, but especially in all cases connected with a debilitated condition of the digestive organs, in diseases of the mucous tissues, embracing Dysentery, Diarrhea, and especially summer diseases of children; in chronic inflammation of the bladder, in most diseases of the kidneys, especially those attended with alkaline deposits, in torpor of the liver; as a local application in chronic inflammation of the eyes in diseases of the skin, both as a local and internal remedy; in diseases of the scalp and ulcers generally and all diseases of females, connected with debility.

It is expected that Madam Arraline Brooks the celebrated danseuse from New Orleans will spend the summer at the Springs and will teach all the modern and fancy dances, where all the lovers of the "poetry of motion" will have an opportunity of learning to "tread the light fantastic toe" after the latest and most approved style.

H. LATHAM, M. JONES, G. W. HENDERSON, PROPRIETORS.

SERVANTS WANTED.

THOSE who have servants of either sex from 14 to 22 years of age, of fair capacity, can have them well instructed in the art and mysteries pertaining to the occupation of waiters and house servants, by sending them to me at the Artesian Springs. They must come well clothed and shall be well taken care of and returned to their owners on the 15th September. No charge will be made for their instruction.

T. C. McMACKIN.
